

Key Stage 3 Long Term Planning

Year 7 INTENT: The Year 7 History curriculum aims to provide pupils with a secure and detailed understanding of British History from 1066-1660. This builds upon the knowledge pupils will have acquired at KS2 on ancient societies and the development of British history up to 1066. The year provides pupils with the basic historical skills that will be required throughout KS3 and KS4 and introduces them to the skills required for them to develop as historians. By the end of the year, pupils will have detailed knowledge of the development of the British monarchy from William the Conqueror to Charles II; the role and influence of religion on British history; and case studies of the events of 1066, the Black Death and the English Civil War. Moor Park History pupils in Year 7 will begin to develop an inquisitive and questioning approach to the past and know how historians use source material. They will be able to investigate historical topics and apply their knowledge of the past in support of their opinions. A review of the KS3 curriculum for 2026-27 has also sought to develop pupils' understanding of world history e.g. Islamic Empires and the Aztecs

Year 8 INTENT: The Year 8 History curriculum aims to provide pupils with a secure and detailed understanding of British History from 1750-1918. This builds upon the knowledge pupils will have acquired at KS3 on the development of British History during the medieval and Tudor periods, particularly the changes to religion and the monarchy. The year provides pupils with opportunities to develop the historical skills that they will require through KS3 and KS4 and consolidates the skills required for them to develop as historians. By the end of the year, pupils will have detailed knowledge of the events of the Industrial Revolution, the Slave Trade and the First World War; and case studies of the abolition of slavery, the suffrage movement and conscription during the First World War. A consistent theme throughout Year 8 is that of our rights and freedoms. Pupils will consider the impact of the abolition and suffrage movements on the modern world and will have opportunities to develop their understanding of local history through lessons on Preston's role during the Industrial Revolution and the experiences of the 'Preston Pals' during the First World War. Moor Park History pupils in Year 8 will develop an inquisitive and questioning approach to the past and understand the challenges faced by historians when examining source material. They will be able to investigate historical topics and apply detailed knowledge of the past in support of their arguments. Key Stage 4 Long Term Planning (2025-2027 cohort)

Year 11 SYLLABUS: Edexcel GCSE History

In Year 11 pupils will also have the opportunity to study the Modern Depth Study, Weimar and Nazi Germany 1918-39. Within this study, pupils will learn about different aspects within this period of time such as social, economic, political, cultural and military themes. Pupils will also consider how these differing aspects of the period interact with each other. There will also be an emphasis upon different interpretations and how we use these in order to consider the utility of sources and evaluate the importance of different perspectives. Pupils will continue to have the opportunity to examine and discuss the settlement of the American West. As the study of the period progresses, pupils will establish an understanding of the development of the region including the movement towards the destruction of the Plains Indian way of life. In addition to this, Moor Park History pupils will be confident in using an inquisitive and questioning approach to this area of study and will be able to explain the importance of key developments and be able to explain the consequences of key events. They will also be able to investigate historical topics and apply their detailed knowledge of the past in support of clearly justified arguments.
